Explanation

During the month of February 2022 and the first half of March 2022, the international prices for oil and fuels have increased substantially. The increase of the end user tariffs for both Mogas 95 and Gasoil LSD are therefore mainly the consequence of an increase of the purchase prices, caused by the international developments. In order to prevent an even steeper tariff fluctuation for Mogas 95 and Gasoil LSD at once, the international peak prices have been eliminated in determining the purchase prices and the increase of the purchase prices will be implemented in two steps by means of a negative correction in the Surplus/Deficit component. These mitigating factors will have to be corrected during the following months.
